Rusk, Gromyko End Futile Berlin Talks

Final Huddle Lasts Nearly Four Hours

Agree To Continue Discussing Issue By Other Means

GENEVA (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko ended their Geneva talks on the Berlin dispute Monday night without resolving any East-West differences. They agreed, however, to continue discussing the problem by other means.

Rusk will fly to Washington Tuesday to report to President Kennedy.

Rusk is expected to tell the President that while no Berlin agreement was reached, the United States took the opportunity to define its position on Berlin in the clearest possible terms.

American sources said the fact that the Russians are interested in continuing to talk about Berlin indicated that the Kremlin is not anxious to force an early showdown. This appeared to be one positive accomplishment of the Geneva dialogue.

Meeting Longest Of Series

In their final session Rusk and Gromyko met for three hours and 45 minutes in the secluded Soviet villa on the outskirts of Geneva. Their exchanges during the meeting—the longest of the series—were described by Western informants as diplomatic and businesslike.

Rusk and Gromyko will meet briefly Tuesday at a plenary session of the 17-nation disarmament conference, but the talk there is not expected to take up any substantial part of the Berlin problem. Rusk intends to speak to the conference on disarmament issues.

American sources said the Rusk-Gromyko meeting failed to produce any change of position on either side.

Rusk was understood to have emphasized to Gromyko, as he had done in the earlier discussions, that the Western powers have no intention of yielding any of their basic rights to be in West Berlin and have unhindered access to the city.

Shake Hands, Smile

They were understood to have combed over every detail of the Berlin problem. Then, when this longest private talk of the current series was concluded, the two men shook hands and smiled as they took leave of each other in the glare of photographers' lights.

Rusk said there had been no change in basic positions. But Rusk obviously thought the exchange was useful in defining the conflicting Soviet and American attitudes. He told newsmen:

"We discussed matters of common interest including Berlin and some other questions. We had a good long talk."

But the atmosphere was one of deadlock. The only known new proposal before them was a Communist suggestion for a vague international watch on the land, air and water corridors linking West Berlin with West Germany 110 miles away. This proposal, at least in the form it was presented, is totally unacceptable to the West.

Ex-Sen. Green, 94, Breaks Wrist In Fall

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (UPI)—Theodore Francis Green, the oldest man ever to serve in the U.S. Senate, fell and broke his left wrist in his home Monday.

The 94-year-old millionaire bachelor, who recovered from a heart attack a few months ago, suffered the injury in hanging an oil painting.

A Democrat, the sprightly ruddy-faced Green served four six-year terms in the Senate before retiring in 1960 at the age of 93.

WINS CASE — Washington attorney Charles S. Castro Charges Top Cuban Red Creates 'Chaos'

HAVANA (UPI)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro Monday night accused one of his nation's top Communist leaders of creating "chaos" in Cuba.

Castro, in a scathing television attack, singled out Anibal Escalante, an old-line Communist who is secretary general of the newly created United Party of the Cuban Revolution.

He said Escalante was guilty of "creating an organization for his personal benefit" and charged the Communist with "many errors" in the revolutionary government.

It marked the first time that Castro has specifically named any one in his criticisms of governmental mismanagement. Castro said Escalante was also guilty of introducing "straightjacket" methods in carrying out the revolution.

Weary Jackie Flies To London

LONDON (UPI)—Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy flew into London Monday night from an exhausting 15-day tour of India and Pakistan and said that except for lunch with Queen Elizabeth she planned to do nothing but rest until she goes home Thursday.

Mrs. Kennedy showed no signs of her weariness on her arrival at London Airport after a 13½-hour flight across Asia and Europe from Karachi. Her Pakistani Airlines Boeing 720B jet airliner made only one brief refueling stop on the way.

She almost danced down the steps of the ramp to kiss her brother-in-law, Prince Stanislaw Radzivil, waiting at the bottom. She beamed at U.S. Ambassador and Mrs. David K. E. Bruce and smiled warmly at Lord Nugent who brought the greetings of the Queen. She smiled and waved her hand time and again for photographers.

Eichmann's Own Words Come Back To Haunt Him

JERUSALEM (AP)—Attorney General Hausner used Adolf Eichmann's own words Monday in an effort to persuade Israel's highest court to uphold his death sentence.

The prosecutor concentrated on Eichmann's testimony at his four-month trial last year in a detailed review of the case against the condemned former Gestapo colonel.

Citing captured Nazi orders for the deportation of Jews to extermination camps, Hausner told the Supreme Court: "The accused always told me he carried out these orders to the hilt. He admitted he was obsessed with his mission and he expressed his satisfaction that, though Hitler lost the war, Eichmann had won his campaign to erase the biological foundation of European Jewry."

Hausner also cited captured documents that showed that Eich-

Dixie Bloc's Talkfest Shut Off By Senate

Votes To Consider Bill Carrying Move To Outlaw Poll Tax

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate shut off a southern talkfest Monday and voted up for consideration a minor bill that is the vehicle for an anti-poll tax proposal.

The 62-15 roll-call vote was the first break in a dispute that has tied up the Senate for 10 days. Immediately after the minor measure was accepted as current business, Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., offered his substitute which would outlaw the poll tax by constitutional amendment.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen joined Holland as co-sponsors.

There also is a move coming up to outlaw the poll tax by simple legislation. But Mansfield said he would move to kill any amendments which he said might cause defeat of the constitutional amendment in the House.

That ended the proceedings for the day. But Sen. Richard B. Russell, unofficial leader for the southern bloc, served notice that he would raise a point of order against Holland's proposal "at an appropriate time."

Thirty-six Democrats and 26 Republicans voted to take up the minor bill — a resolution to make the New York City home of Alexander Hamilton a national shrine. Fourteen southern Democrats and Sen. J. J. Hickey, D-Wyo., voted against it.

After the vote, the Senate agreed, on Mansfield's motion, to meet at its regular noon hour for the first time in almost a week. This opened the way for resumption of committee meetings which have been blocked by Senate sessions starting at 9 a.m.

Earlier, determined southern orators held sway for the ninth straight complete day as the Senate edged toward the first showdown.

Senate leaders hoped the poll tax issue might be disposed of before week's end. But another flare of oratory was possible.

Midwest Battles Flooding Rivers

By United Press International

National Guardsmen, prison trustees and volunteers Monday fought runaway waters draining off a deep winter snowpack in a three-state midwestern flood zone.

Rivers in northwestern Iowa, eastern Nebraska and southeastern South Dakota surged over low-lying farmlands and besieged sandbagged levees. Thousands of acres were inundated, bridges were weakened or washed out and highways were submerged.

Aftermath Of Bloody Battle In Algiers

A French soldier walks past the body of a European killed in Rue d'Isly, in the center of Algiers, yesterday. Another dead European lies in background amid the debris of the battle that erupted when European settlers, waving tricolors, marched in protest in answer to a call by the terrorist Secret Army Organization. The toll of dead and wounded was high when soldiers fired into marchers when they refused to disperse.

Kennedy Asks $600 Million Public Works

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy proposed Monday an immediate start on a $600-million public works program to pump job-making projects into nearly 1,000 American communities still suffering from heavy unemployment.

Kennedy asked the House and Senate Public Works committees to okay the new plan as part of a $2-billion standby capital improvements program he had asked earlier to ease the impact of future recessions.

The President said despite strong recovery from the latest recession the economy still has "considerable distance to go before full employment is restored" in many communities.

Predicting continued economic expansion this year and next for the nation as a whole, Kennedy said this would in time help restore prosperity to many of the hard-hit areas.

"But their needs are urgent now," the President said, "and further help should not be delayed until another recession threatens the whole economy."

Cities and areas eligible for the stepped-up program would be those already designated as depressed or labor surplus areas.

Kennedy, in effect, called for an immediate pump priming to help along the recovery already under way — while also enacting the standby program to minimize any new downturn that may develop.

Kennedy's proposals were backed in testimony before the House committee by Walter W. Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors; Budget Director David E. Bell; and Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg.

Goldberg said no leaf-raking, make-work projects were contemplated but necessary public buildings, roads, parks, airfields, hospitals, sewage and water-supply projects. Most of these, he added, already have been authorized by Congress for future completion.

Projects would be limited to those that could significantly alleviate unemployment, meet an essential public need, and could be finished in a 12-month period. Grants to states and localities would range to 50 per cent of project cost and could be higher. Loans would be available to assist communities unable to meet matching costs.

News Conference Set

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy will hold a news conference Thursday at 11 a.m. EST, the White House announced Monday.

High Court's Ruling Backs City Voters On Apportionment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Urban voters won a momentous, first-round victory Monday in their long fight against rural domination of state legislatures.

By a 6-2 vote, the Supreme Court ruled lower federal courts may determine whether city voters are unconstitutionally discriminated against in the apportionment of legislative seats.

Speaking for the majority in deciding a case from Tennessee, Justice William J. Brennan Jr. said, "We have no cause at this stage to doubt the District Court will be able to fashion relief if violations of constitutional rights are found."

The decision did not instruct the lower court how to proceed but lawyers speculated that the District Court could work out a redistricting in line with requirements of the state constitution. If the Tennessee legislature refused to adopt it, the court then might order an at-large election in which all legislative candidates would have to be voted on statewide, instead of by districts.

Charles S. Rhyne, an attorney for the urban voters, told a reporter the decision will have its effect in every state of the union and "could pretty well shift control of state legislatures to urban areas."

Brennan said it would be improper for the high court to consider now what remedy would be most appropriate if the city voters prove their case at the trial.

The case now goes back to a special three-judge District Court in Nashville. In December 1959 that court dismissed the case on the ground it had no jurisdiction. But the three-judge court commented that Tennessee was "guilty of a clear violation of its own constitution, and the rights of the plaintiffs (city voters)." It agreed also with these voters that "the evil is a serious one which should be corrected without further delay."

The litigation was originated by a group of voters living in larger cities. (Continued on page 2, col. 5)

Secret Talks Between Dutch, Indos Collapse

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S.-sponsored secret talks between the Netherlands and Indonesia over West New Guinea have broken down, informed diplomatic sources said Monday.

The stumbling block is the issue of administering the Dutch-held territory.

While the United States remained hopeful that the informal talks that recessed last Thursday would be resumed, diplomatic informants did not share this optimism.

The chief Indonesian envoy, Ambassador Adam Malik who represents his country in the Soviet Union, will not return to the secret meeting place near Washington because of disappointment over the Dutch attitude in the three days of talks last week, officials said.

By the second day of the talks, the informant said, it became clear that the Dutch envoy, Ambassador J. H. van Roijen, would not agree to Indonesian administration of West New Guinea.

The third day of the meeting at an undisclosed private estate some 25 miles from Washington was held together by Ellsworth Bunker, retired U.S. diplomat and business executive, until a communiqué could be issued that announced a recess, rather than an adjournment of the talks.

State Department press officer Lincoln White told newsmen: "We hope and expect the talks will be resumed since this is the most promising means of achieving a peaceful settlement."

Sources reported the Indonesians feel the Dutch are following a divide and rule policy that represents no real chance in position.

New Argentine Cabinet Sworn In By Frondizi

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Defying new demands by military chiefs that he resign, President Arturo Frondizi swore in a new cabinet Monday. He prepared to press on with the austerity program that brought a Peronist upheaval at the polls and provoked the nation's worst crisis in seven years.

The resourceful president, survivor of 35 crises since his 1958 election, faced yet another obstacle in his fight to hang on to office — a split in top military ranks between commanders backing a temporary truce in the tug-of-war and those insisting that Frondizi quit now.

Present at the swearing in was Gen. Rosendo Fraga, secretary of the army, who has called on his generals to give mediators a chance to settle the current crisis, now in its ninth day.

But less than 24 hours after Fraga made his appeal, the army commander in chief, Gen. Raul Poggi, urged his boss to drop such a truce and pull all top commanders to find out quickly whether most of them want Frondizi ousted.

In southern Buenos Aires Province, Gen. Franklin Rawson issued a communiqué pledging his 3rd Cavalry Division to support those insisting on Frondizi's removal.

Also present at the cabinet ceremony was Brig. Gen. Jorge Rojas, secretary of the air force, who has been noncommittal about the truce. He met Sunday night with U.S. Ambassador Robert McClintock, who is anxious that constitutional government continue so Argentina can join in President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress aid program.

Whether a new cabinet will satisfy the military remained the major question.

Military chiefs led the 1955 overthrow of the Peron regime and the top generals and admirals are incensed with Frondizi for permitting Peronists to participate in new elections.

Kennedy Presents Medal To Poet Robert Frost, 88

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Poet Robert Frost was presented the congressional medal by President Kennedy Monday and he called the event "the height of my life."

The white haired Vermont bard, who celebrated his 88th birthday anniversary Monday, also told Kennedy "how grateful I am to you personally."

Congress two months ago passed a special act awarding the rarely given congressional medal to Frost.

At a special ceremony at the White House Monday, Kennedy told his old friend—who had written and recited a special poem at his inauguration—"It's a great honor for me, speaking on behalf of Congress and the people of the United States, to present this much deserved and rather rare award."

He said he hoped the office would last a long time "before it becomes too much of a department."

50 Civilians Die In Algiers, 180 Wounded

Troops Mow Down Unarmed Europeans With Machineguns

By PETER D. ROBINSON
ALGIERS (UPI)—French soldiers fired submachine guns at pointblank range Monday into a mob of unarmed French civilians obeying a Secret Army Organization call to demonstrate in the heart of Algiers for a French Algeria.

Officials at Mustapha Hospital said the casualty toll for the day was 50 civilians killed and 180 wounded. One riot policeman was killed and four firemen and six other members of government forces were wounded, they said.

The OAS had asked the Europeans to "parade with flags flying at your head but without any arms" to the War Memorial where in the past the die-hard French settlers have staged their revolts against President Charles de Gaulle. It was to be a demonstration of solidarity with the victims of Bab-el-Oued.

The first volley of fire lasted but 10 minutes. But for the next two hours downtown Algiers was a scene of panic, bloodshed and agony as troops fired wherever and whenever they found themselves face to face with the enraged European crowds.

Military Activity In Oran

Intense military activity also was reported in Oran and it appeared the French army was about to carry out another house-to-house search like the one that captured ex-Gen. Edmond Jouhaud, second in command of the OAS, in a bloody battle Sunday.

At least one member of the security force was killed and five wounded but it was uncertain whether they were the victims of snipers bullets fired by OAS marksmen or whether a few of the crowd had been armed.

It was a warm, sunny afternoon in front of Algiers' main post office when the trouble began. A French army officer posted seven of his men armed with submachineguns and rifles at intervals of about three feet across the Rue d'Isly. The order was: Nobody gets past.

The thin line of soldiers cocked their weapons as a throng of thousands of Europeans moved down the street in a relentless march. French blue-white-and-red flags fluttered at their head. They sang the "Song of the Africans" and changed "Al-ge-rie Fran-aise."

Almost Festive

It was almost festive. The sun glinted on sweating foreheads. Young men held their heads high and the singing of the crowd was plainly from the heart. They came within 30 yards of the troops. Then 20, Then 10.

A soldier shouted: "Halle! N'avancez plus." (Halt. Do not come any further.) The soldiers raised their weapons. Those at the front of the crowd began shouting. Someone shouted an insult. Then another.

The next sound was the staccato of submachinegun fire, the whine of bullets, the scream of injured men. Then came the stampede. I dived into a doorway and was joined immediately by half a dozen demonstrators.

One image stood out: Bullets ripping and slithering up and down a plate glass window to the accompaniment of high pitched screams. The shooting, the wails of the injured, the noise of the ambulance sirens continued for minutes.

De Gaulle Gives OAS All-Out War Warning

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle Monday night called Algeria's rebellious Secret Army Organization (OAS) a band of criminals whose only future is that of punishment. It was a warning of all-out war to the rebels.

In a 10-minute nationwide radio-television broadcast, De Gaulle called on his fellow Frenchmen to give him full powers to settle the Algerian problem by an overwhelming "yes" vote in the April 8 referendum to make the territory free.

His angry denunciation of the OAS—although he did not mention it by name—came shortly after troops and police opened fire on defiant European civilian demonstrators in Algiers in the third big clash in violence torn Algeria in four days.

Women Should Get Equal Pay, Goldberg Declares

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said Monday an "elementary rule of equity" requires that women should get equal pay with men for equal work.

Goldberg told a House Labor subcommittee the equal pay bill it is considering was a modest one.

"This doesn't tell an employer how much to pay anyone," Goldberg said. "All this statute says is you pay the same wage within your business."

The room was crowded with women as the subcommittee opened hearings on the bill, which would set up job evaluation standards for determining whether discrimination was occurring on the basis of sex.

There are no criminal penalties proposed but employees found to be victims of such pay discrimination could collect the wages of which they were deprived plus an equal amount as damages.

Esther Peterson, assistant secretary of labor, presented a chart showing that in 1960 the average annual wage for men workers was $5,417 while for women it was $3,293.

"Not only the individual woman worker, but the effective functioning of our whole economy, is handicapped by the lingering notion that women are inferior workers, are not worth as much as men to an employer and are working only for short periods until they marry and depend on their husbands for economic support," she said.

Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., said that on a recent Russian tour she was asked more questions about discrimination against women than about discrimination against Negroes.

Mrs. Theola Gierke of the Olympia, Wash., local of the Retail Clerks Association, said that even though Washington has a state equal pay law "female employees generally are afraid to stand up for their rights under this law." She urged a federal statute.

Israel To Buy Bonds

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Israeli government informed acting Secretary-General U Thant Monday it will buy $200,000 worth of U.N. bonds. Israel is the 18th country signifying its intention to take some of the $200-million bond issue to help meet the world organization's financial crisis.

Integrationists Plan Maryland Freedom Rides

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — The Prince Georges County chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) announced plans Monday for freedom rides Saturday along U. S. 40 from Baltimore to the Delaware border and U. S. 1 from Baltimore to Washington. The integrationist organization said some 200 persons have pledged to participate in the simultaneous demonstrations against segregated restaurant service.

The demonstrators plan to meet at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at the Friends Meeting House in Adelphi, Md., near College Park. They will return to Adelphi for a late Saturday afternoon rally.

The U. S. 40 freedom ride will be the first along the highway since last Dec. 16 when some 500 persons tested its restaurants.

Participants in Saturday's rides will include CORE members from Prince Georges County, Baltimore and northeastern states in addition to members of the Nonviolent Action Group in Washington and students from two Maryland colleges.

A CORE spokesman said the demonstrators would by-pass the City of Baltimore because a freedom ride there might hamper enactment of a public accommodations bill now being considered by the City Council.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The director of the Maryland Natural Resources Institute stuck by his guns Monday after a statement he made last week about Assateague Island was criticized by an Eastern Shore engineer.

Dr. L. Eugene Cronin, while urging the Board of Natural Resources to obtain as much land as possible on Assateague for public recreational use, was quoted as saying:

"Most of Assateague, in the past, present and future, is totally unusable as a residential area."

He reiterated Monday, in the face of criticism from Robert Craighead Walker of Berlin, Md., that public ownership for Assateague was best.

"Most of the island has been, and will remain, unsuitable for residential use," Cronin said.

The island is dynamic. It is in motion and will continue to change rapidly, both vertically and horizontally. Owners of property on the island cannot afford to protect it against storms or purchase insurance against storm damage.

"It is a magnificent area for public use for swimming, camping, natural history and general recreation. Therefore, the state should place under public ownership as much as possible of Assateague Island as still remains."

Cronin declined comment about Walker's statement that the insti-

Liner Searched After Report Bomb Aboard

NEW YORK (UPI) — The luxury liner America was searched stern Monday after a hoarse-voiced man warned there was a bomb aboard.

Forty policemen, some members of the bomb squad, rushed to Pier 86 at the foot of W. 46th St. where the America had docked after a nine-day Caribbean cruise.

Most of the 721 passengers had left the ship before the telephoned threat. The United States Lines operator who took the call said a man with a hoarse voice told her there was a bomb aboard the America.

The search failed to turn up any evidence of a bomb.

Crashing Crockery Case Solved

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Police said Monday the case of the crashing crockery has been solved.

Mrs. Lena Gemmecke, 61, was arrested by a policeman who said he saw her hurl an ashtray against a wall in the home of the woman's daughter, Mrs. Renate Beck, who 15 days ago claimed unexplained forces were breaking china, glass and crystal.

Police Sgt. James Mullin went to the home Saturday night, answering a call that someone was ill, and found Mrs. Gemmecke on the living room floor, apparently unconscious. He said that while he talked to Mrs. Beck, he saw Mrs. Gemmecke hurl an ashtray against a wall.

Then, Mullin said, Mrs. Gemmecke overturned a coffee table and pushed over a chair and a piano bench.

Mrs. Gemmecke was charged with disorderly conduct. She appeared before Municipal Court Judge Peter Pappas Monday. He continued her case and ordered a mental examination.

Cotton Imports Fee Advocated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Cotton Council told the tariff commission Monday imports of cotton textiles must be taxed if the government price support and surplus disposal programs are to be fully effective.

The council, formed by American cotton manufacturers, filed a final brief with the commission in an investigation requested by President Kennedy on whether a fee should be imposed on cotton imports to prevent interference with the government's cotton program.

The proposed fee would be 8½ cents a pound on the cotton content of imported articles which is equal to the current export subsidy for raw cotton.

The council said the fee is necessary to offset the competitive advantage given to foreign manufacturers. Domestic manufacturers pay one-third more than their foreign competitors for U.S. cotton.

The council reminded the commission this advantage resulted in a five-fold increase in imports in the six-year period ended in 1960. The brief stated imports of yarn and cloth in January were the highest on record.

Motorist Convicted In Fatal Accident

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Ray Douglas Thomas, 53, charged on three counts after a fatal traffic accident Aug. 7, 1961, was found guilty on two of them Monday in Dorchester County Magistrate's Court.

Magistrate Allen M. Baird fined Thomas of Takoma Park, Md., $100 and costs on a reckless driving charge and $50 and costs for failure to keep right of center. Thomas was acquitted of manslaughter because of lack of sufficient evidence.

The accident occurred on U. S. 50 south of here where Thomas' car ran into a tomato truck, then struck a car operated by Edward L. Smith of Hagerstown. A passenger in the Smith car, Rosa Ann Shank, also of Hagerstown, was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. John Mace, medical examiner.

Maryland Marks 328th Birthday

By The Associated Press

Maryland belatedly observed its 328th birthday Monday.

Most state and city government offices were closed in observance of Maryland Day, which is March 25 and fell this year on Sunday.

Ceremonies honored Cecil Calvert and the second Lord Baltimore, who established the Palatinate of Maryland.

Mrs. Thomas R. Beers, president of the Maryland Colonial Society, placed a wreath at the Calvert Monument in Baltimore. Gov. Tawes and Mayor J. Howard Grady delivered short addresses.

Schools, libraries, banks and savings institutions, stock exchanges and most other businesses remained open as usual.

Four Hikers Nearing Goal

BALTIMORE (AP) — Four college students neared the end of their hike to the White House Monday after having paced off 250 miles to show President Kennedy they are fully in accord with his national physical fitness program.

The hikers left Times Square in New York City a week ago. They faced heavy rains while passing through New Jersey and one member of the hiking team, John Hamill, Jr., suffered a few blisters toward the end of the trip.

The money for the trip was supplied by the Physical Fitness organization at Windham College in Putney, Vt., where the four are enrolled. Many of the motels, where they stopped on the trip, provided a night's lodging free of charge.

The hikers are: Hamill, 22, Rye, N.Y.; Bruce Blasius, 23, Ramsey, N.J.; Frank Catapano, 20, Huntington, N.Y.; and Everett Flagg, 22, Stonington, Conn.

The hikers passed through Baltimore around noon Monday on U.S. 40 then swung over to the Baltimore - Washington Expressway for the rest of the trip. They planned to stay overnight at a motel near College Park before making the final leg of the trip.

a member of the Tawes Ticket, one of Hume's major rivals in the May 15 party primary.

Releases Letter

Finan said he had not intended to release the letter at first but did so Saturday because "I wanted the people of Maryland to judge the reliability of certain politically motivated statements being issued on this subject by comparing them to the opinion expressed in the letter by the highest legal officer in the nation."

Both Hume and George P. Mahoney, another opponent of Tawes in the gubernatorial race, have attacked the governor for tardy action in having a savings and loan regulatory law enacted.

Hume said the statement by Kennedy's office that the attorney general was not taking sides in the primary was "most welcome." But he said "use for political purposes of (the) letter . . . still demands full and immediate disclosure of all contents."

"Once more," said the Charles County attorney, "the Tawes Headquarters has played fast and loose with the facts to be given the people of Maryland."

"Once more it has plunged into the depths of political amorality, this time using the high office of the 'highest legal officer in the nation' to deceive the Maryland public."

Sun Editorial Points To Need For Area Dams

An editorial in yesterday's Baltimore Sun points out that decisions on the construction of a series of dams on the Potomac River cannot be postponed much longer.

The conclusion was made in commenting on last week's spring flood which caused no major damage but resulted in the loss of water which may be needed during dry spells this summer. The editorial follows:

Lost To The Sea

The coastal storm of March 6-7 was exceptional but there was nothing unusual about the flood which passed down the Potomac River last week. The arrival of warm weather always brings high water at this time of year; last week's onrush was a combination of melting snow in the upper-watershed mountain area and heavy rains over the entire valley. Fortunately, the flood was of moderate proportions; there was no heavy damage.

The crest has now passed Washington and the danger from spring floods this year has apparently gone. So has a big potential supply of fresh water. The flood has mingled with tidewater and is on its way to the sea. There is no way to bring that water back. It is lost for household and industrial uses and for irrigation.

There is a lesson here. If the water now lost had been held back in a series of impounding reservoirs there would be no need to worry about dry spells this coming summer. And over the long range if there were a series of impounding reservoirs there would be no need to worry about the ability of the basin to meet the greatly increased water needs anticipated for the future. Decisions on the construction of dams on the Potomac cannot be postponed much longer.

Downtown Recreation Area Is Considered

Street Commissioner John J. Long said a North Mechanic Street site is under consideration as a downtown recreation area.

Some time ago, Long asked that a study be made to provide a recreation area for children downtown who were forced to play in the streets in many instances.

Recreation Director C. Eugene Mason reported that an area near the flood maintenance department's workshop on North Mechanic might serve the purpose. Long said he would ask council's permission to erect a couple of basketball nets or other equipment.

Twenty-six members answered roll call with "How can I improve my public speaking," and routine reports were given by Betty Jo Hammons and Jean Robinette.

The point system for honoring outstanding club members was read and accepted by the group. The club decided to hold a skating party at Moon Glo Skating Rink Friday. Those desiring transportation are to meet at the home of Barbara Kolb at 6:45 p. m.

An Easter egg hunt will be held at the home of Mary Baker April 21 at 2 p. m. The refreshment committee is comprised of Jean Robinette, Nancy Robinette, Barbara Kolb and Vicki Hamons. Betty Jo Hamons, Nancy Lou Burgess, Ladonna Stonestreet and Koren Reuschel are members of the recreation committee.

The meeting concluded with demonstrations. Kathy Bates and Mary Twigg demonstrated a quick method of frosting cup cakes and how to decorate them with colored coconut. Mary Baker gave a public speaking demonstration on the theme, "Speak for Yourself," and Rita Messick demonstrated a cottage cheese dip and maple flavored dairy drink.

The next meeting will be held April 26 with health as the theme.

Drive Begun

A membership drive was inaugurated at the meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the National Association of Letter Carriers held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Carscaden, South Allegany Street. Plans were made to pay expenses for those attending the Congressional breakfast in Washington.

A social followed and refreshments were served. A white elephant gift was presented to Mrs. Eugene Sewell.

The junior class of Catholic Girls Central High School will hold a rummage sale Saturday from 9 a. m. until 6 p. m. at 39 North Mechanic Street.

FLUFFY BRUSHED MO-HAIR, typical of many lightweight spring coatings, is used for a pale pink mandarin-type coat by George Carmel. Sleeved in one with a curving yoke banded away from the neckline, the coat is wide in back.

Reunion Committee To Meet Today

The reunion committee for Allegany High School Class of 1957 will meet in the school library today at 8 p. m.

This will be the second meeting and plans will be made for the date and place for the reunion. A check of addresses of classmates is also planned.

B'nai B'rith Lodge Meets Today

Western Maryland Lodge B'nai B'rith will meet today at 8:15 at Beth Jacob Synagogue, Columbia Street, with William B. Schindler presiding.

Daniel S. Evans Jr., instructor at Allegany High School, will be guest speaker.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar T. Duke and children, John and Linda, Twin Lakes, Kent, Ohio, visited the latter's mother, Mrs. O. O. Sterne, 514 Beall Street, and Mr. Duke's brother and family, Henry K. Duke, LaVale, over the week end. They were joined Saturday by their daughter Janet, who is on spring vacation from Duke University where she is a sophomore.

City Delays Action On Pay Increase

The Mayor and Council did not act on a five-cent wage increase for city employees yesterday but any action taken later will date to the pay period beginning March 25.

The reason no action was taken was that Mayor J. Edwin Keech is confined to his home by illness.

Employees will get the increase with the first pay in April, providing an extra $2 a pay or $104 a year.

In the absence of Mayor Keech, Water Commissioner G. Ray Light was acting mayor at yesterday's council meeting.

In one action relating to the pay increase, council, at the request of Street Commissioner John J. Long, rejected all bids for a street flusher. Long said it might be possible to readvertise for a flusher when funds become available.

It is necessary, he said, to operate the department efficiently to return as much of the funds of the department for next year's budget as possible.

Since the department will be reducing its funds by taking money from its budget to help provide the pay increase for employees, there is nothing to do but hold off the flusher bids.

Student Honored

Jean H. Van Ormer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Van Ormer, 747 Washington Street, has been named to the dean's list at Dickinson College for superior work in the past semester. A junior student, she is majoring in history.

Ministerial Association Asks Parking Privileges

Emergency parking privileges in restricted but not forbidden areas in the city have been asked by the Greater Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Rev. William C. Harpole, in a letter to the Mayor and Council, cited several instances of "emergency visitations" which ministers make. The privilege was asked for a "reasonable time."

Should council grant permission, the association would provide identification for ministers' cars, it was stated.

Council said it would take the matter under consideration.

Council also heard a request from Roy Kershner of Golden's Lane, for additional fire protection. Kershner said the nearest hydrant is 1,900 feet away and while residents pay city taxes, their fire insurance rate is nearly double that of those who reside nearer fire hydrants.

He said he had been trying to get added protection for two years and believed a tap could be made off the main 48-inch city water line which runs within 75 feet of his home.

Water Commissioner G. Ray Light brought out under questioning that the largest line available is a two-inch while a four- or six-

MISS BEVERLY COVER

Local Girl Gets Degree In Engineering

A Cumberland girl graduated earlier this month from Georgia Institute of Technology, the second girl in the history of the school to receive a degree in civil engineering.

She is Beverly Ann Cover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph G. Cover, Bowling Green, who received her bachelor's degree at graduation ceremonies on March 16.

A 1958 graduate of Allegany High School, she has accepted a position with the Federal Bureau of Public Works in Washington.

Miss Cover was one of 35 members of the Georgia Tech graduates to be elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities this year.

While a student at the Georgia institution, Miss Cover was a member of the Student Council, solo majorette for the institution, a member of the yearbook staff and secretary of the Georgia Tech chapter of the American Society for Civil Engineers.

Her father is a local builder and real estate developer.

Jaycees Ask City To Put Plan On Ballot

The Junior Association of Commerce yesterday made the first move toward having the council-manager form of government placed on the June 15 general election ballot for referendum.

The association, through its president, Frederick J. Hill, presented a copy of proposed amendments to the City Charter to the Mayor and Council yesterday.

The Jaycees asked for a reply from council within 14 days and the request was referred for study and reply.

Council can by charter amendment resolution have the charter change placed on the general election ballot. But if it chooses not to do so, the Jaycees can get the question on the ballot by submitting a petition signed by 20 per cent of the city's qualified and registered voters who participated in the last general election.

In other activity yesterday, council set for 11 a. m. next Monday a meeting with White Avenue property owners to discuss a sewage situation. The property owners have petitioned for sewer installation.

Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder asked council to pay tribute to Mrs. Ernest J. Nimmons, 24 Valley Street, whose first person narrative of "The Day That Made the Difference" appears in the April issue of Redbook magazine; and to Wamba Caravan 89, Order of the Alhambra, for the A.C.I.T. basketball tournament which, she said, brought much credit to the Alhambra and to Cumberland.

An invitation from Fulton Myers Post 133, American Legion, to join with it in celebrating the 43rd anniversary of the Legion, was read.

City Honors Miss Nell Cozad

The Mayor and Council by resolution yesterday paid tribute to Miss Nell Cozad who has served 21 years with nine administrations in the city's Department of Finance and Revenue.

Miss Cozad will retire as of April 1.

The resolution paid tribute to her "efficient and faithful service" during her years with the city.

Miss Cozad and Mrs. Catherine Lashley will be honored at a City Hall women employees party today at 5:30 p. m. at Cumberland Country Club. Mrs. Lashley, a secretary in the offices of Associated Charities, is leaving her duties Friday and will move to Arlington, Va.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD. — Circus week-end in Palm Springs was so hectic (I know - I was there) I don't know how Doris Day found a moment quiet enough to close the deal to star in her third picture for Ross Hunter at Universal-International.

But Ross and Doris got together via long distance with the result that Miss Box-Office will make "the thrill of it all," a hilarious comedy about a TV "pitch" girl which Ross will produce.

You can make a safe bet that Doris will wear gorgeous clothes just as she did in her other two for Hunter, "Pillow Talk" and "Midnight Lace." Producer Hunter believes in glamor with a capital G.

Warren Beatty is one actor who would much rather make pictures here in Hollywood than go to Europe.

He said, "I have had offers from France and Rome, but if I can find a story in Hollywood, I would prefer to stay in my own country. I expect to form my own production company very soon. The way the situation is now, you almost have to have your own company. I don't know anything about business—I'm an actor, and that's what I want to be. With the setup as it is, I'm told I would be better off financially if I had my own company. "One thing," said Warren, "I want to be a nicer person in my next picture. I have always played heels."

The tip comes straight that Steve Forrest is being offered the musical lead opposite Mary Martin in "Come One, Come All" which will be produced by Howard Dietz and Arthur Schwartz on Broadway this fall. You may be saying "Steve Forrest in a musical?" Our good looking movie actor isn't as much a stranger to musicals as you may think. Several years ago he was one of the featured leads in "Body Beautiful" in New York. It wasn't a hit but it was musical experience for Steve.

I was interested in learning that "Come One, Come All" is based on the life of drama star Laurette Taylor.

Hate to spoil Peter Lorre's image in the public mind as one of the nastiest boogey men on the screen. But on the set at 20th Century Fox where he's working in "Five Weeks in a Balloon," Peter is the worst of softies. When his 10th wedding anniversary was coming up a few days ago, Peter was as sentimental as a child ordering gifts for his wife, Annie Marie, and a big anniversary cake to surprise her.

And as one of the other actors said, "You can't talk to Peter two minutes that he doesn't pull out pictures of his eight year old daughter, Cathy, which he 'just happens' to have in his pocket. "Sort of scares you — doesn't it?"

Mark Reagan Bautzer, age 2, will visit his grandparents in Ireland in May. Dana Wynter Bautzer, his beautiful actress mother, told me she and Mark will go ahead of Greg, who will join them a week later. Because of the unrest in Africa where Dana's parents reside, they will meet her in Ireland.

Her father is a very eminent doctor, and her mother is a charming woman. Both visited the Bautzers when Mark was first born, and they haven't seen him since. And what a surprise they'll have! Mark is such a big boy now, and handsome like his father and mother.

Marilyn Monroe isn't the only gal with a beautiful office. The suite Columbia is preparing for Kim Novak, lady executive, is something to see.

Keely Smith, the gal who handed out the fines at the kangaroo court in Palm Springs, was very happy because attorney Sid Korshak had signed her for her first solo appearance at the Riviera in Las Vegas. She will receive $25,000 a week, which will keep her in the style to which she's grown accustomed.

The rumors about Garbo's supposed death were so widespread that Gaylord Hauser told me people had called him from all over. I talked again with George Schlee, and he said he finally received a telegram from her and that she'll be back in New York next week.

Alicia Purdon telephoned to say that her ex, Edmund Purdon, is completely out of her life and she doesn't care when or where he married Linda Christian. "Just leave me out of it," she said. Will do, Alicia.

Deborah Walley's father, Nate Walley, will be here with the Ice-Capades three days before her marriage to John Ashley, April 28th, in time to give the bride away. Their wedding gift from John's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Roger Atchley, is $10,000, as payment on a house.

Adela Rogers St. John will call her book "Final Verdict." It's a biography of her late father, Earl Rogers, and she's been working on it for several years.

Everybody's getting into the act. The latest is Pilar (Mrs. John) Wayne, who opened a dress salon with John Hayles, close to Marusa's Fashion House.

Evian Hunter flew out from New York to start work on the script of "Marnie." Princess Grace's movie for Alfred Hitchcock.

Shelley Ames plays secretary to her father, Leon Ames, in the TV series "Father of the Bride." Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., will never have a nicer compliment than the one paid him by James Brown, who writes to tell me that he was in Dallas for a "Route 66" TV segment, and the guest star was Fairbanks. Said James, "He's as fine a person and actor as I have ever met. His graciousness with people impressed me so much."

Parking meter receipts the week of March 18 amounted to $932.25 compared to $789.93 the week of March 11, an increase of $142.32. Inspector Harry Whisner reported to the Mayor and Council yesterday.

The CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 108 "Of the many men who contributed to advances in ordnance and gunnery by the United States Navy, one stands out above all others for the lasting effect of his work. Called by some the father of American naval ordnance, John Adolphus Bernard Dahlgren earned the title not merely by developing the guns of the Civil War Navy, but primarily for the manner in which he forged the Navy's scientific approach to the problems of ordnance and gunnery."

This tribute was written by military historian, W. T. Adams, for a publication of the American Ordnance Association.

Dahlgren had more direct effect on the outcome of the war than the celebrated John Ericsson, with whom he shared a Swedish heritage. As Adams said, "While Dahlgren's lasting fame rests on his ordnance achievements, his accomplishments in command of the Union blockading fleet at Charleston cannot be ignored. . . . His drive and initiative were major factors in making a success of an operation that only limped along under his predecessor."

Dahlgren was born in Philadelphia, the son of a Swedish consul stationed there. Otherwise he was "the Navy's own." He joined the service as a teenage midshipman. He had important inventions to his credit when war came in 1861. His appointment then to chief of the Bureau of Ordnance was to be of decisive importance in the war, as Adams indicated.

Seaport Recalls Sailing Memories

MYSTIC, Conn. (UPI)—A trip through the cobblestone streets of Mystic Seaport carries the visitor back to the colorful "Age of Sail" that sent American clipper ships to the corners of the earth. The bowsprits of a three-masted square rigger, a schooner and a 121-year-old whaling ship jut over the ancient waterfront wharves.

The mystery of Mystic's past is buried deep in the legend of the ship and silk trade of the China clippers and the watery world of the whale hunters of a century ago.

Mute evidence of that age of men who plowed the seapaths fills the tree-shaded streets of this now sleepy New England village from the remains of the rudder of Captain Bligh's ill-fated "Bounty" to the tip of the foremast of an old whaler.

The pilgrim to the nation's seagoing past can recapture the glamor and charm of that adventurous age by walking down Seaport Street, lined with warehouses, sail lofts, cordage shops, the Spouter Tavern and exhibition buildings.

Behind the village green stands the small, white Fishtown Chapel that stood for 70 years on New London Road a short distance outside Mystic before moved to its present site.

The whaler "Charles W. Morgan" stands sedately in its last berth with bowsprit aimed at the heart of Mystic. "Australia," the oldest schooner afloat, is anchored a short way off and the three-masted training bark "Joseph Conrad" is docked at the end of Seaport Street. The old ferryboat "Brinkerhoff" is around the corner.

The tall, slender masts, yards and rigging form an intricate lace-work pattern against the sea and sky that was once an everyday sight in seaports around the globe.

The nautically nostalgic town is situated at the mouth of the Mystic River at the junction of Routes 1 and 27. This area once was the center of the faded whaling industry and the home of hundreds of storied sea captains and sailors who battled their way around the Horn to wealth and adventure or a rapid, watery death.

Mystic Seaport is owned and operated by the Marine Historical Association.

The center of interest is the whaler "Charles W. Morgan" which brought home a fortune in once-valuable whale oil. The history of the venerable vessel is long and distinguished and today you can stand on the deck and relive the past.

The spyglass Captain Bligh used aboard the mutiny-rocked "Bounty" rests in a glass covered showcase.

The streets that once rang with the shouts of hardy sea rovers are silent now, but the saga of the nation's seagoing past has been brought back to life at Mystic Seaport.

Sheriff's Canine Corps Had Unusual Qualities

OLATHE, Kan. (UPI)—The entire Canine Corps of the Johnson County sheriff's office has been fired—all because of a dog named Satan.

Sheriff Ralph Burger said things went reasonably well at the outset, about two years ago, although all the dogs displayed a few problem personality traits, among them a unanimous aversion to drunks.

"The drunk," Burger said, "always wanted to pet the dogs, who were trained to be vicious on command and sometimes didn't wait for the command. Sometimes an officer who was driving hard a hard time keeping a friendly prisoner and an unfriendly dog apart."

Satan had a brand of devilry all his own. Burger said three men were discovered inside a drug store late at night. Ordered into the darkened premises to flush them out, Satan firmly braced his feet in refusal. One officer pulled and another pushed until the reluctant, 125-pounder was maneuvered inside.

Satan was not seen again after officers had rounded up and handcuffed the three burglars. Then Satan was found sitting outside, licking his chops — coated with chocolate from candy he had stolen from a display counter.

"This," said the sheriff, "was embarrassing." Satan, however, was not fired then.

Dismissal came after he took sides in a family argument in his master's household. Each dog rode, during working hours, with the officer to whom he was assigned, and lived, when off duty, at the officer's house.

Satan had a special fondness for one of his master's children and an unexplained dislike for the man's wife, the sheriff said. One day when the mother bent over her offspring to administer a scolding, Satan roared to the child's defense.

"The dog grabbed the startled housewife by the lower stern section and hung on," the sheriff said.

That did it. Satan was sold back to his trainers at Springfield, Mo., and the era of canine police work in this Kansas City suburban area came to an end.

"From now on, we'll try to get along with men," Burger said.

Italian Chef Doesn't Yearn For Old Days

NEW YORK (UPI)—Carlo Marchesi, who once was chef to a king, does not sigh for the good old days. Not when he recalls the long hours and hard work that went into elaborate dinners for royalty.

"Once a week, a whole saddle of veal, stuffed," said Marchesi. "We start in the morning to prepare for the evening."

It was not unusual to work from 6 a.m. till 11 p.m., he said. But Marchesi, in an interview, remembered that the king himself—Victor Emmanuel III of Italy—was a man of simple tastes whose favorite "la Amatriciana," with a plain sauce of tomatoes, onion, garlic and prosciutto, the Italian raw ham.

After serving the royal family in the late 1920's, Marchesi went on to other demanding jobs. At a Milan club in 1936, he was among 10 cooks who worked six days to prepare dinner for 150 persons honoring an Italian general returned from North Africa. He stayed up the night before the dinner to make 15 "houses" of bread with fried potato roofs. They were small replicas of Abyssinian huts, and were used to garnish platters of partridge.

Since then, Marchesi, a handsome, gray-haired man of 55, has worked in European and American clubs and restaurants, a New York hotel, and on an ocean liner.

Now he is head chef of a theater district restaurant, Barbetta. Recently remodeled, the restaurant is Piemontese in decor and cuisine. The north Italian province of Piemonte was home both to the chef and the royal family of Italy.

Marchesi still remembers vividly some of the meals he served to royalty, such as dinner for the Prince of Wales, now the Duke of Windsor, when the prince was a guest of the Italian king in Rome.

The chef described the main course as a whole boiled ham, boned and stuffed with pate de foie gras and white truffles, baked in pastry, then soaked overnight in port, sherry and cognac. The wines and cognac were poured through a hole in the top of the crust.

The dinner menu at his present post includes royal favorites, such as the spaghetti dish, and peasant specialties like bagna cauda. This is an appetizer: of cold vegetables served with a hot butter and oil dip seasoned with anchovies and garlic.

Other Piemontese dishes include bolliti misti, a stew containing beef, veal, sausage, calves head, chicken and several vegetables; vitel tonne, veal with tuna sauce; and fonduta con tartufi, cheese fondue made with fontina cheese, milk, butter and white truffles.

As with Swiss fondue, members of a party all are expected to eat from one dish—but with forks, instead of dipping bread cubes into the bubbling fondue.

Mystic Seaport is owned and operated by the Marine Historical Association.

The center of interest is the whaler "Charles W. Morgan" which brought home a fortune in once-valuable whale oil. The history of the venerable vessel is long and distinguished and today you can stand on the deck and relive the past.

Tourists To Washington Miss Many Attractions

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation's capital draws more than 6 million tourists a year.

Most of them visit the White House, the Capitol, the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial, Mount Vernon, Arlington Cemetery, the Smithsonian Institution and the Tidal Basin where the cherry trees blossom briefly in late March or early April. A few determined ones also see the Library of Congress and the Supreme Court.

All these places are well worth visiting. But there are many other things to see and do in Washington, which most tourists miss.

For example, have you ever had the urge to see a real $100,000 bill? There's one on display, along with many other rare samples of U.S. currency, at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. A tour through the bureau also gives you a close-up look at the way U.S. paper money and stamps are produced. One tip: Don't ask the guides if they give out samples. This joke has been worn out.

Another rarely visited museum is at the Patent Office, in the Commerce Department building. There you can see the original models of many famous inventions as well as some weird contraptions which have been patented over the years.

Stamp collectors, especially, should make a point of visiting the Post Office Department, which has more than 100,000 stamps on display in one of the world's greatest philatelic exhibits.

If your interests run to exploration and adventure, don't miss the National Geographic Society's building on Sixteenth Street. In "Explorer's Hall" you'll find such things as the flag which Commodore Peary planted at the North Pole.

The National Archives Building on Pennsylvania Avenue contains the originals of many great documents of U.S. history, including the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution and Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation.

A must, especially if there are youngsters in the party, is a visit to the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Just go to the Justice Department building on Pennsylvania avenue and tell them you want "The FBI tour." You'll see, among other things, John Dillinger's gun, plans for the Boston Brink's robbery and other souvenirs of notorious crimes and criminals.

Lovers of literature should not miss the Folger Shakespeare Library, behind the Supreme Court building. It has a priceless collection of first folios of Shakespeare's plays.

Doctors and nurses will want to see the National Institutes of Health in suburban Bethesda, Md.

Farmers and foresters should plan a side expedition to Beltsville, Md., 15 miles out of Washington, the site of the world-famous Experimental Station of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Argentine Gives Alliance Headache

In his January State of the Union message President Kennedy pointed to what he called "a prospect of great promise: our hemispheric relations."

Whatever their visualized great promise in January "our hemispheric relations" do not look so good in March. The incredible present state of affairs in Argentina is acutely embarrassing to the Kennedy administration's $20 billion Alliance for Progress.

If the alliance stands for anything other than easy access to the United States Treasury it certainly ought to stand for free institutions, including free elections. What is the United States trying to export to Latin America other than dollars?

It claims to be exporting political and social reforms. It purports to encourage political freedom as well as economic progress. Its spokesmen refer to freedom as a natural right of man.

But what's to be said of hemispheric free elections when they go in favor of notorious dictatorships?

This is a painful question raised by the Argentine elections that resulted in sweeping congressional and gubernatorial victories on the part of candidates sympathetic to the deposed dictator, Juan Peron. Strongarm tactics presumably will prevent the return of Peron or the accession of any of his freely elected sympathizers. But undeniably they also will thwart the expressed will of the people and create a resentful popular atmosphere hardly congenial to the stated aims of the Alliance for Progress.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Republicans, Conservatives

The great mass of Republicans welcome the conservatives of various shades of opinion because they may help to win elections for Governors, Senators and Representatives in 1962. Many Republican leaders fear this conservative infiltration, believing that, in time, the conservatives may take over their party as the Americans for Democratic Action have gained mastery of the Democratic Party and as the Liberal Party in New York City has captured New York during an inter-necine fight among the Democrats.

The conservatives have the advantage of being able, during this early stage of their development, to have a popular candidate for the Presidency, Senator Barry Goldwater. They suffer the disadvantage of being made up of a very young, intellectual group with leadership aspirations and abilities, and of an over-age element which confuses conservatism with reaction. The Republican Party cannot accept all these elements.

Governor Charles Edison, a leader among conservatives, said at a Madison Square Garden rally that all conservatives should get together, which is like saying that Norman Thomas should agree with Khrushchev because they both call themselves Socialists. It is a negation of reality.

In New York State, a new party, the Conservative Party, is being organized mostly by young lawyers. This has attracted considerable attention among politicians who fear that should such a party be on the ballot, Governor Nelson Rockefeller would suffer in his effort to be re-elected. Should the Democratic candidate for Governor be Mayor Robert Wagner, two liberals will be running against each other.

Douglas Caddy, National Director, Young Americans for Freedom, Inc., does not favor a Conservative Party, as a third party. He has said:

"As a supporter of Senator Goldwater, I cannot reconcile myself to the strategy mapped out by those who wish to fight the political wars of conservatism outside the two-party structure. In the case of the announced plan of the newly-organized Conservative Party of New York to oppose Governor Nelson Rockefeller, conservatives should ask themselves: Will the defeat of Governor Rockefeller, admittedly a liberal Republican, and his replacement in Albany by, say, New York's Mayor Wagner, an ultra-liberal Democrat, benefit the conservative cause?"

It is, of course, a sound question to which the answer could be that such an election might weaken the Republican Party in New York State until it loses all authority. No one can accept the progressive Republicanism of Senator Jacob Javits as having any relationship to any form or manner of Republicanism. He may be re-elected for reasons other than that he runs on the Republican ticket, but his partisanship cannot be accepted by conservatives. He has made his own record and it is not a record for which a conservative of any hue can vote.

This is an issue with which Caddy does not deal; that is, he ignores the fact that during the Eisenhower Administration, two types of Republicans prevailed, the big businessman, for whom President Eisenhower had considerable respect, and the progressive Republican who believed that he could play intellectual tricks upon the American people by imitating the ADA.

There is not too much time for the Republicans to make an important dent on the November 1962 election. Senator Barry Goldwater travels the country making speeches, but his are conservative Republican speeches. Can Barry Goldwater support a progressive Republican to hold the party together?

Richard Nixon, whose political fate depends upon his election as Governor of California, has asserted his opposition to the John Birch Society which is the general attitude of the Republican leadership but not of Republican rank and file throughout the country. The John Birch Society is particularly active in California and Texas. The political influence of this Society will be measured by what it does in California.

This much seems certain: there is bound to be a conservative breakthrough politically. The emergence of Senator Barry Goldwater is a symptom; the election of Senator John Tower in Texas is another symptom. These men are definitely conservatives. But there must be more than that to accomplish such a breakthrough as the liberals accomplished when they captured the Democratic Party.

For the country, it would be a normal and wholesome development if the names Republican and Democratic were dropped, as they have by 1962 lost specific meaning, and the words, conservative and liberal, substituted.

'Flexibility - That's What It Needs'

Khrushchev Still Insists On Right To Cheat

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The Soviets still insist on the right to cheat. This is the net result of more than three years of palaver about a ban on nuclear tests.

Seventeen nations have sent representatives to Geneva to negotiate an agreement to abolish nuclear tests. The conference has proved fruitless. Russia is willing to sign an agreement all right, but refuses to allow any system of international inspection to be set up so as to make sure each party to the treaty is keeping its word.

Instead, Russia proposes its own "national inspection," which means that each nation would be free to cheat. The idea that some neutral agency should be established to see that the agreement is adhered to has been suggested, but Russia balks at it.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev is willing to enter into discussions of co-operation in outer space because he knows this is a vague subject that is certain to bring almost interminable debate. Even here, he makes as a condition for any agreement the acceptance by the United States of his type of disarmament treaty — which, of course, includes the right to cheat.

Where does this leave the whole problem of disarmament? It means that there will be nothing of substance accomplished, despite all the official gobbledygook about "reduction" or "limitation" of armaments.

The Soviets take the position that, if any system of international inspection is provided, this amounts to espionage or "spying." Yet the Moscow regime maintains throughout all continents the most comprehensive spy system the world has ever known.

Moscow continues to propose all sorts of international meetings and "summit" conferences, and gives the impression, through her propaganda, that only peace is sought. The other countries do not do a good job or rebutting this

Hot Spot Test Used To Locate Skin Cancers

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

A new test for breast cancer was described recently which involves the temperature of the skin. The method is not practical because there are easier and better ways to uncover malignancies in this structure. On the other hand, the concept is new and we never know where research of this nature will lead us.

A little knowledge of physics will help to understand the test. All objects with a temperature above 32 degrees F. give off infra-red, or heat rays. The warmer the rays, the shorter and more numerous they become. When the waves become so numerous as to be visible to the eye, most of us recognize them as coming from a very hot surface. As a result, the usual infra-red detector can be used as a thermometer for estimating the temperature of the surface that is giving off the rays. It is so sensitive, immediate readings are obtained.

The skin radiates heat. In this respect, all of us give off infra-red rays (not to be confused with ultraviolet or sun rays). The surface temperature of the body can be measured with various types of thermometers, including the infra-red measuring instrument mentioned previously.

The device is held one-third of an inch from the skin and by moving it from one area to another, the temperature of different parts of the body can be determined. As a rule, the temperature on the right and left sides of the body is the same, provided the circulation is normal.

A group of British physicians made the discovery that the temperature over surface cancers and abscesses is higher and gives rise to localized hot spots. They utilized this knowledge in testing the breast for abnormalities by moving the infra-red detecting device over the breast area.

When the heat scanning was done on 57 women with known breast cancer, all but three revealed a hot spot over the malignancy. Lesions other than cancers and abscesses, including cysts, were tested but all were cold.

L. H. writes: My feet burn so much in bed I can't let one lie against the other. Is there any help for hot feet?

REPLY

Pearson Says Nixon's Campaign For Governor May Cost $2 Million

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Ex-Vice President Nixon is certainly going to shell out the money in his race to get the Republican nomination for governor of California.

It has just leaked out of advertising circles that the firm of Hixon-Jorgensen has asked leading TV stations for five 15-minute periods weekly for eight weeks in the cities of San Diego, Los Angeles, Bakersfield, Fresno, Sacramento and San Francisco. This will cost around $150,000.

On top of this, Hixon-Jorgensen have reserved $61,000 worth of 24-sheet billboards for a period of 30 days before the primary. This will give Nixon a total of 955 billboards and what is considered a 100 per cent showing in California.

The billboard exposure and TV programs alone will cost $210,000. Add this to the cost of campaign literature, TV spots, radio spots, the cost of organization and field work, and political experts estimate the former Vice President will spend around $700,000 in the Republican primary alone.

In the primary he is running against Assemblyman Joe Shell. In the final election he will be running against Gov. Pat Brown, Democrat. By the time he gets through the final race, Nixon will have rolled up a campaign bill of around $2,000,000 — if he continues at his present pace. Wonder where the money's coming from?

Note — Hixon-Jorgensen also represents Richfield Oil, which is controlled by Cities Service. When Alton Jones, former head of Cities Service, was killed in the recent jet tragedy en route to California, $61,000 in cash and travelers checks was found in his wallet and briefcase.

Jackie And Elizabeth

When Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy sits down at lunch with Queen Elizabeth this week, a situation of nine years ago will be completely reversed.

At that time, Jackie, who had been a socialite photographer with the Washington Times-Herald, had hopped over to London with a friend to see the coronation. They had no hotel reservations, no tickets for the coronation or anything else. London was jammed. But they managed to get about fairly efficiently, and although Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II was surrounded at all the pom and ceremony that is part of the British throne, they managed to see her from a distance.

This time things will be different. Jackie will have the best that London can offer and will be lunching with the lady whom she watched from a distance nine years before.

These two glamorous women the Queen 35, Mrs. Kennedy 32, both have young children, both love horses, and both enjoy country life more than they do officialdom. They should have a lot to talk about.

Mrs. Kennedy's trip, which on the whole won new friends for the United States, was accomplished at no great expense. She and her sister, Princess Radziwill, both paid their own way on commercial planes. An Air India charter flight picked them up in Rome to fly to New Delhi, but they shared the plane with the news staff, all paying their proportionate share.

In India, Mrs. Kennedy was entertained by government and private hosts and traveled at the expense of the host government — which is customary. President Ayub of Pakistan sent his private plane to pick her up in India — at no expense to the United States.

The U. S. Government did pay the traveling expenses of Mrs. Kennedy's secretary, Tish Baldridge, and her press relations assistant, Jay Gilder, together with her Secret Service agents. And the U. S. Information Agency sent along one cameraman at $1,000 a week, one director at $1,050 a week, and an assistant cameraman at $425 a week. These are union rates.

Alexander Hamilton's Grave

Alexander Hamilton, first secretary of the treasury, and founder of the Republican Party, may well be turning over in his grave at the way southern Democrats are hassling over a resolution originally intended as a memorial to him. Instead, the tribute has turned into a ban of any poll tax as a voting requirement.

The switch from a memorial to Hamilton to a poll tax constitutional amendment came about as a result of some fact parliamentary legerdemain by Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Senate leader.

He struck all except the enacting clause from the Hamilton memorial amendment and inserted the poll-tax ban. This means there will be no memorial to the founder of the Republican Party, but there will be — if passed — a memorial to the right to vote.

Mansfield did this because he knew he couldn't get the poll-tax resolution through the Senate Judiciary Committee, headed by Sen. Jim Eastland of Mississippi, on which sit Senators Johnston (S. C.), McClellan (Ark.), and Ervin (N. C.). He figured they would sit on the resolution for months.

So two New York Republicans, Keating and Javits, who had introduced the Hamilton Memorial resolution, agreed to have it gutted. Hamilton, they figured, could be honored another time.

Holland's Revolution

Meanwhile, there's an almost revolutionary Senate development in connection with the poll-tax fight. Sen. Spessard Holland, conservative Florida Democrat, is ready to sign a petition for cloture to end the filibuster and bring the poll-tax ban to a vote.

This is unprecedented. Never before has a southerner been willing to take a stand against a filibuster.

But for about ten years Holland has been a sincere and consistent worker against the poll tax. This is not grandstanding on his part. In fact, he doesn't like to be lined up against old friends like Sen. Dick Russell of Georgia who is leading the poll-tax filibuster.

Russell has chided Holland. But, he adds, a man who has been right on so many other issues should be forgiven for this one sin.

No Scenery

By John Crosby

Al Capp has finally done what we've all been threatening to do for all these years. He has personally assaulted the stagehands union. "A season of flops is the best possible kind of season for Theatrical Protective Union Number 1," says Capp in Show magazine. "Their members can go from one disaster to another, collecting lush overtime pay. But when a stagehand has the rotten luck to be involved in a hit show, he loses his overtime money. Stagehands are the only members of the company saddened by rave reviews."

Pretty tough words. Over the years, as the theater has gradually closed like an obsolescent flower, the stagehands have blithely gone their lovely featherbedding way, collecting the most possible money for the least possible work. Meanwhile, the scenery—which is what the stagehands are theoretically there to change—seems slowly to be disappearing altogether.

Heil, I hark way back to stage shows like "The Bandwagon" (Fred Astaire, Helen Broderick, Tilly Losch, Frank Morgan. Aah, those were the days!) The scenery revolved and there was lots of scenery. In those days, when an actor was said to chew the scenery, he had something to chew. Now, there's a little cardboard cutout to indicate a cathedral. They turn an amber spot on to indicate it's a desert and it's hot. How the devil can an actor chew an amber spot?

But-and this is the nub of my complaint-the actors seem to be doing all the shifting of what little scenery remains. In "A Man for All Seasons," an actor changes the chairs, sets the table, and sets the scene right in front of your eyes-while expostulating on the nature of man and the sixteenth century. That's a lot to ask of an actor.

I mean, if the actors are going to do all that work, I don't know why the stagehands can't be called or once in a while to step out and sing a song. Tit for tat. One good turn deserves another. And

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

The wealthy son of an Irish immigrant indulged in a bit of reminiscing. "My father," he recalled, "came over from Shannon firmly convinced that the streets of America were paved with gold. Once here, however, he speedily made three discoveries: 1. The streets were NOT paved with gold. 2. The streets weren't paved AT ALL. And 3. HE was supposed to do the paving.

Mrs. Hart came back from the lavish smorgasbord spread with a plate loaded down with goodies. "Ah, me," she sighed ruefully. "This pate isn't on my diet, and this potato salad isn't on my diet, and these beans aren't on my diet, and these meat balls aren't on my diet."

"My dear Mrs. Hart," interrupted a doctor at the table. "It strikes me that the main thing that is not on your diet is you!"

W. Va. Farmers Told To Enter Tourist Trade

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia farmers who find that their principal interest—farming—isn't bringing in enough money may be able to practically double their income by branching out into the tourist business.

Gus R. Douglass, assistant state agriculture commissioner, said Friday this would be possible under a new loan program under consideration by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Douglass said that under the plan now being developed, farmers—beginning July 1, 1963—would be able to apply for long-term federal loans to develop their lands into tourist and hunting attractions.

The state official said the federal plan "would dovetail perfectly with our present farm-valuation program for providing tourists and hunters with on-farm living accommodations and meals."

He said the West Virginia departments of Agriculture, Natural Resources and Commerce probably would coordinate the handling of such projects and forward them to the national agency.

It would be done in much the same manner that present industrial development projects are being forwarded to the federal Area Redevelopment Administration after approval at the state level.

"Our farm accommodations program increased in its scope and effectiveness last year compared to the first year in 1960," Douglass said. A total of 31 farms around the state participated in the program and furnished tourist lodging, meals and entertainment.

"We expect the number of farms to double this season and are currently preparing for distribution an expanded brochure on the farms."

The largest income received by a single participant last year was $6,100 from 21 visitors. Attractions at that particular farm included living accommodations, meals, nearby recreation facilities, horseback riding, a pond for swimming and fishing and opportunity to participate in dairy farm "chores."

"The farm accommodated only one family the previous year," Douglass said. "That's an indication of how this program is catching on."

"West Virginia is ideally situated geographically to capitalize on the tourist trade of the entire Eastern Seaboard and Midwest," Douglass said. "The most distant visitor last year came from Chicago."

Douglass said agriculture officials have been meeting regularly each week with natural resources and commerce department officials to discuss the federal proposal, which is expected to be one of the top items in the U. S. Agriculture Department's 1963-64 budget proposal.

"With the possibility of these new federal development funds, the whole program is open for tremendous expansion of tourist and vacation facilities, land resource and conservation development," Douglass said. "And hunting and fishing projects that may become possible stand to go a long way toward dispelling animosity between farmers and sportsmen's groups."

He said the agriculture department might in the future expand to include a new division to handle this type of development.

"The field is wide open and I think could easily increase the gross annual income of the state's farmers by $100 million," he concluded.

Hardy County Shepherd College Alumni To Hold Rally At Moorefield, April 27

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — An anniversary rally for all alumni, former students, and friends of Shepherd College will be held Friday, April 27, at 6:30 p. m., in the Moorefield grade school gymnasium. Alumni President Charles Unseld announced that Moorefield has been selected as the meeting place for all Hardy County alumni. Similar rallies, he said, are being planned for each of the other seven eastern counties of West Virginia.

The occasion is the observance of Shepherd College's ninetieth anniversary as a state supported institution of higher education. By an Act of the West Virginia Legislature on February 27, 1872, Shepherd College was established as a state normal school.

"The primary purpose in founding the college was to meet the growing educational needs of West Virginians living in the Eastern Panhandle counties," President Unseld said. "The need for qualified teachers, and for more and more of them, was a very pressing problem. The rapidly growing population of the new state meant growing school age population, and the supply of both educational and qualified teachers was inadequate to meet the demand."

Dr. James Moler, coordinator of educational field services for Shepherd College, is working with the county committees in arranging for Shepherd College Ninetieth Anniversary rallies. Spearheading the project, he is coordinating the efforts of various groups and assisting in formulating the final plans for the program in each county. Each county group is headed by an administrative officer or faculty member from Shepherd College.

Dr. A. G. Slonaker, Shepherd College academic dean, who heads the Hardy County group, said his committee for Hardy County consists of Stanley Hawse, Blanche Hinkle, and Polly Williams Ours. Dr. Slonaker said as spokesman for the committee, "It is practically impossible to evaluate the contribution that Shepherd College has made to the education and culture of our people during the past 90 years. It is fitting, therefore, that we have a birthday celebration in each of the eight counties we serve to pay tribute to the important role of the college in our lives and in our communities."

During the past decade, 240 high school graduates from Hardy County have enrolled at Shepherd College. Dean Slonaker pointed out. During the present semester, there are 32 Hardy County residents enrolled at the college, he said. These figures for a semester and a decade give some inkling as to the vast numbers of Hardy County citizens who have made Shepherd College their alma mater during the past ninety years.

Following the dinner, a short program will be presented. It will bring the group up to date on recent developments and inform them regarding the centennial goals of Shepherd College.

All friends, former students, alumni are urged to attend the rally, Dr. Slonaker said. He suggested that each person planning to attend should tell his friends about the rally and insist that they also attend.

"There will be no solicitation or dues at this meeting," Dr. Slonaker said. "It is a birthday rally of a special nature and its purpose is, for all of us, to celebrate the ninetieth birthday of our own institution of higher education, Shepherd College."

"Where's Charley?" has a diversity of scenic settings. Among them are the interior of Jack Chesney's rooms, St. Olde College, Oxford University; the Quadrangle of St. Olde's College; a garden with spreading tree with a circular bench at its base; and an elaborate drawing room.

The production is under the direction of Charles I. Sager, chorale: Miss Dorothy Stone White, dramatic and technical; Mrs. Joseph E. Mackert, dance; and Howard Spetzie, and Rose Mary Moberley, as Donna Lucia D'Alvadorez, the real aunt from Brazil, complete the cast of characters. Among the musical numbers are the familiar: "My Darling, My Darling"; "Where's Charley?"; and "Once in Love with Amy." Especially colorful dances include: "The New Ashmolean Marching Society and Student Conservatory Band"; "Pernambuco"; and "At the Red Rose Cotillion."

LET CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
 A X Y D L B A A X R
 is L O N G F E L L O W
 The letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints to solve the code letters are different.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—Wheat and ryegrass rallied near the close, but grains worked lower Monday on the cargo Board of Trade.

Wheat ended up $\frac{1}{4}$, to $\frac{1}{2}$, corn 0 to $\frac{1}{8}$, oats and $\frac{1}{4}$, rye up $\frac{1}{8}$ and soybeans off $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$.

Buying interest was slow through the day. Commission houses here and wheat and rye decline as recovery in those grains.

Improved weather attracted selling interest. Dealers said the weather would enable farmers to get their crops started after several weeks of planting delays.

Although commercial buying was light to Rickshaws are disappearing. Except as tourist attractions, man-powered taxis survive in Hong Kong and Calcutta.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear little son John R. George who passed away nine years ago March 27, 1953. Oh, so often comes the memory of a little babe.
A laughing lovely little son.
Oh, he was happy sweet and fair, and beloved by every one.
God gave to us a lovely gift when he gave us our lovely boy.
More precious to us than any gold.
He was our pride and joy.
Sadly missed by MOTHER

In loving memory of our beloved son and brother, M. Sel. James C. Sturtevant, who died 1 year ago today in Formosa March 27, 1961.
Just when his days seemed brightest, just when his hopes seemed best, God called him from amongst us to His eternal rest.
Sadly missed, but God knows best.
MOTHER, SISTER & BROTHERS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kindnesses following the death of Ralph E. Ramhoff. The donations of food and the sympathy cards were greatly appreciated.

Small Boy Killed By Automobile

Bernard J. Chabot Was Son Of Trooper Stationed At LaVale

A state trooper stationed at the LaVale barracks yesterday afternoon witnessed an auto accident in which his 2½-year-old son was struck and killed near his home along Maryland Route 36 just south of Grahamstown.

Bernard Jeffrey Chabot, who sustained multiple fractures of his skull, was taken by his father, Tfc. Bernard Joseph Chabot, to Miners Hospital in Frostburg where he was pronounced dead by the deputy county medical examiner's office.

Tfc. Joseph V. Stakem, who is investigating the fatal accident, gave this account of the tragedy: Rolling Lawn

Trooper Chabot, who was off-duty, was rolling the lawn of their home and the little boy was tagging along behind him.

When he moved the roller to the south-side of the dwelling, he turned around and noticed his son had crossed the highway and was standing on the other side.

Trooper Chabot, observed a car driven by John Francis Blubaugh, 65, of RFD 1, Frostburg, was traveling along the highway in the direction of where the boy was standing.

The father called to his son and warned him to stay on the other side of the road. The boy darted into the path of the car and was struck by the right front fender of the sedan.

Blubaugh was traveling south on Route 36 and the accident occurred at 3:15 p. m. about a tenth of a mile south of Grahamstown. No charges have been placed against the driver pending the outcome of the investigation. Only Son

The youngster was an only son of the trooper and his wife Mrs. Lois (Fisher) Chabot. He was born in Frostburg.

Besides his parents, the child is survived by his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fisher, of Frostburg and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Christine Chabot of Eckhart.

The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home, Frostburg, where friends will be received from 7 to 9 p. m. today and from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. tomorrow.

Dispute Hurts Wood Deliveries To Luke Mill

Deliveries of pulpwood to the Beryl woodyard of the Luke mill of West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company were hampered yesterday after a group of men began picketing near the entrance of the yard.

Deliveries of wood to the yard were reported normal during daylight hours but "slim" at night.

The picketing began yesterday morning and followed a call Saturday from a representative of the Tri-State Pulpwood Association, who told the company it intended to discontinue deliveries Monday morning until producers get more money.

A spokesman said the company feels the price it pays for pulpwood is equal to or better than the reported price paid by any mill within several hundred miles.

The entrance to the woodyard was patrolled from time to time by West Virginia and Maryland state police and representatives of the Sheriff's Office of Mineral County. No violence was reported.

The company last night asked that deliveries of pulpwood be confined between 7 a. m. and 5 p. m.

The dispute had no effect on the operation of the Luke Mill.

Md. Blue Cross Reports Loss Of $921,000

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland Blue Cross plan, in a report filed with the State Insurance Department, disclosed Monday an operating loss of $921,000 for the 12-month period ending in February.

Counting the required payment of 2 per cent of premiums into a reserve fund, the deficit for the period actually totaled $1.6 million. The reserve fund now stands at $2.7 million.

Officials declined to draw conclusions from the report, but the figures indicated some form of relief would be needed unless the trend is reversed.

19 Voters Sign Up At Celanese Plant

Some 19 prospective new voters registered yesterday at the Amelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company as Francis Thompson, Democratic substitute registrar, and Charles Llewellyn, Republican substitute registrar, sat there.

Today the substitute registrars will be at the McCoolle Fire Hall from 2 until 5 p. m. and at the Devon Club library in Luke from 6 until 9 p. m.

Dans Mountain Rec Area Plans Are Disclosed

Kaylor Promises Immediate Action

The Georges Creek Improvement Association, meeting last night in the Lonaconing VFW home, discussed progress made in keeping the Dans Mountain Recreation Area under state control and operation, and heard reports on plans for development.

Bernard Cordial, chairman, said that in answer to protests by the association and a number of individuals when it was announced that the state would abandon the park, Gov. J. Millard Tawes not only instructed the Department of State Forests and Parks to develop the area, but provided an additional $25,000 for this purpose.

In a letter to Mr. Cordial, Gov. Tawes explained that the state has no intention of abandoning Dans Mountain Area unless the county or local people want to take it over. He said he had provided $25,000 in additional state funds for development and had instructed the Department of Forests and Parks to proceed immediately with the work.

Another letter was read last night from Joseph Kaylor, director of forests and parks, Mr. Kaylor outlined plans for expenditure of the $25,000. He said a ball field and play field will be built, additional parking and picnic areas will be constructed, and toilet facilities and water facilities will be installed.

Mr. Kaylor also promised that in the late spring or early summer, a survey for future development will be made and the association and other local citizens will be contacted so they can offer their suggestions for developing and expanding Dans Mountain Area.

Mr. Cordial said the association last night agreed that it will remain active and will work on continued expansion and development of this important and valuable recreation area.

There were representatives present from Lonaconing, Maryland, Barton, Shaft, Gilmore, National and other parts of the county.

Three Hurt In Accident

Three men were injured, two of them hospitalized, yesterday evening when the car in which they were riding went out of control and hit a utility pole in Franklin, near Westernport.

Admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital in Keyser were Martin Cosgrove, 19, of Keyser, who sustained a laceration of his scalp; and Robert McIntyre, 27, Westernport, who complained of pain in his back.

Treated at the hospital was Robert Nelson, 40, of Horse Rock Addition, driver of the auto which belongs to the City Auto Sales in Keyser.

Unhurt, according to police, was Robert Bateson, 26, of Piedmont.

Nelson was traveling south on Maryland Route 36 in Franklin when the car went out of control on a sharp curve and rammed into a utility pole located along the road in the vicinity of the old C&P shops in that community.

Tfc. Bruce Diehl is investigating the accident which occurred at about 6:30 p. m. The injured persons were taken to the hospital in the Boal ambulance.

Sanitary Unit Hearing Set For Tonight

Commissioners To Hear Appeal

A public hearing will be held by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners at 7:30 p. m. today at the Court House on a proposal to establish a sanitary district to provide sewage disposal for some 560 homes in Bowling Green, Potomac Park and Roberts Place.

At an earlier public hearing on February 1, the County Sanitary Commission decided to grant a petition for creation of a sanitary district to serve the area along McMullen Highway from the Dingle Hill city limits to the Celanese property line.

However three petitions signed by some 36 property owners opposing the creation of the sanitary district were submitted to the county commissioners. The effect of these petitions was to appeal the sanitary commission's decision. State law provides that whenever 10 or more property owners and residents petition against creation of a sanitary district, the county commissioners must hold a public hearing on the question.

The decision of the county commissioners after tonight's hearing is final as there is no appeal from their decision.

The chief spokesman at the Sanitary Commission's hearing February 1 was Leonard Glass of the Baltimore consulting engineering firm of Matz, Childs and Associates Inc., which conducted a feasibility survey concerning the proposed sanitary district.

Mr. Glass submitted estimates which indicated that the sewers and treatment plant could be built for a total of $887,100, of which $152,100 would be paid from state and federal funds.

His estimates included $482,500 for collecting sewers, $144,200 for interceptor sewers, $160,000 for the sewage treatment plant and another $100,400 to take care of engineering, legal and contingent fees.

Members of the Sanitary Commission are Playford Aldridge, chairman; Robert Reinhard and Alvin H. Rankin. The commissioners who will conduct tonight's hearing are John J. Rowan, John T. Mason and Louis V. Shinnamon.

Chamber Picks Tourist Unit

John L. Towler has been appointed chairman of the Convention and Tourist committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, according to Karl W. Bachman, president.

Members of the committee are Thomas F. Conlon Jr., Miss Helen Tasker, Philmore Fleming, Clarence Wagner, Anton Squillari, Lee Marple and Henry Gehauf.

Tawes Answers Direct Attack Of Mahoney

Cites Progress In Mental Health

By The Associated Press
Gov. Tawes made an exception Monday to his rule of ignoring direct attacks on him by opponents for Democratic renomination and claimed George P. Mahoney showed a "shocking lack of information concerning Maryland's mental hygiene program."

In a statement issued Saturday, Mahoney had accused Gov. Tawes of "criminal neglect" in providing facilities for the mentally retarded.

"Mahoney's statement completely disregards the fine work being accomplished in this field by Dr. Isadore Tuerk, the members of the State Department of Mental Hygiene and the Maryland Association of Mental Health," Tawes fired back.

Makes Exception

"To use such strong language in condemning their fine accomplishments merely to promote his own political career is inexcusable and demonstrates a lack of awareness of state affairs."

"I have made it a point never to reply to Mahoney's absurd charges but, in this case, he has impugned the reputations of a great many dedicated citizens by his charge of criminal negligence."

Both Tawes and Mahoney cited Dr. William C. Menninger in their exchange.

Mahoney said a report by the president of the Menninger Foundation showed per patient expenditures for the mentally ill in Maryland are far below minimum standards.

Tawes said that Menninger in an address to the Maryland legislature in February stated Maryland "is well above the average of state programs in many ways."

Praises Tuerk

"Dr. Menninger also paid special tribute to my efforts and to the efforts of Dr. Tuerk (commissioner of mental hygiene) in the field of mental health," the governor continued.

Tawes then called upon statistics showing the number of persons in Maryland mental institutions has declined the past four years despite a growth in total population.

He also referred to an appropriation of $25,000 by the 1962 Legislature to convert a tuberculosis hospital at Henrytown to treating mentally retarded and $20,000 to plan a similar institution in the Montgomery-Prince Georges county area.

While Tawes was striking back at Mahoney on mental health, another Democratic candidate, David Hume, was hitting at the governor on reapportionment.

Hume used a Supreme Court decision to claim that lack of leadership by Gov. Tawes resulted in failure of the Maryland legislature to approve redistribution in the House of Delegates.

Cites Court Ruling

The Supreme Court ruled that a federal court may entertain a suit by Tennessee residents trying to force reapportionment in their legislature.

On another front, James P. Gleason, candidate for the Republican nomination to the U.S. Senate, said the Kennedy administration is "secretly preparing a psychological maneuver" to gain public support for shipping surplus food to Communist nations.

"If this latest maneuver is successful," Gleason told the Wheaton college or university which of Republican Women's Club, "millions who have been murdered in the name of the Communist state and millions more who are presently enslaved will have been forgotten."

"The United States government will have then paved the way to save Communist governments and their commune system of agriculture."

Work Of Commissioners Cited At Women's Meet

Accomplishments and improvements in the Allegany County government during the past several years were outlined last night by Commissioner John T. Mason, who spoke at a meeting of the Frostburg Democratic Women's Club.

Mr. Mason, who was elected a commissioner in 1958, and is seeking re-election subject to the May 5 Democratic primary election, said one of the major accomplishments realized during the period was the opening of the Allegany Community College.

Referring to the public school program, he pointed out that the commissioners were instrumental in getting the county delegates to the Maryland General Assembly in 1961 to sponsor a $5,000,000 school construction bond issue over a period of five years.

Improvements to Gephart and Parkside schools is a reflection of the accomplishments realized in the bond issue, he added. Public school teachers have been given additional pay increases, he said.

At least $100,000 in interest has been poured into the county treasury as a result of the com-

The moving car pushed the girl and bicycle through a nearby fence into a vacant lot.

Madalyn Bazzle, justice of the peace in Keyser, said a coroner's jury of six persons was impaneled and they visited the scene of the accident and viewed the victim's body at the Rogers Funeral Home. The jurors will hold an inquest on Friday at 10:30 a. m. in the office of Mrs. Bazzle.

Keyser police and state police investigated the fatal accident along with C. Reeves Taylor, prosecuting attorney, and Miss Bazzle.

The victim was taken to the hospital in the ambulance of the funeral home. She was pronounced dead by Dr. Paul Healy.
